A dinner discussion with Paul Tucker (Bank of England). To be held on June 11, 2008 at Eversheds LLP at 7pm for 7.30pm

With support from Eversheds LLP

Thanks to the generosity of Eversheds we have been able to arrange a small dinner with the Bank of England's Paul Tucker on June 11.

As I am sure you know, Paul is a member of the Bank's MPC and has been an executive director since June 2002. In the latter role, he has executive responsibility for:

- implementation of monetary policy via open market operations, reserve management and related risk management; and
- market intelligence and analysis supporting the Bank's pursuit of monetary and financial stability.

Paul is also a member of the Bank's Financial Stability Board and has played a key role in formulating the Bank's response to the global credit crunch. As part of that, he is actively seeking City input into the Bank's thinking on financial stability. In a previous job, he led the production of the Financial Stability Review.

We are delighted that Paul had agreed to speak, and I very much hope that you will be able to join us for what I am sure will be a lively discussion – under (I should add) the Chatham House rule.

Sincerely yours,

Andrew Hilton
